

ACQUAINT'S LUXURY GIFT GUIDE

For grandparents who have everything

ACQUAINT

FOR THE ONE WITH IMPECCABLE TASTE

A cashmere dressing gown

Something pure in colour, like ivory, soft grey or camel.

A restored vintage watch

Bonus points for a personal engraving.

A new signature fragrance

Just don't attempt to reinvent someone who's been wearing Chanel for 40 years.

ACQUAINT

FOR THE BON VIVANT

A private chef for the evening

All the pleasure of hosting. None of the potato peeling.

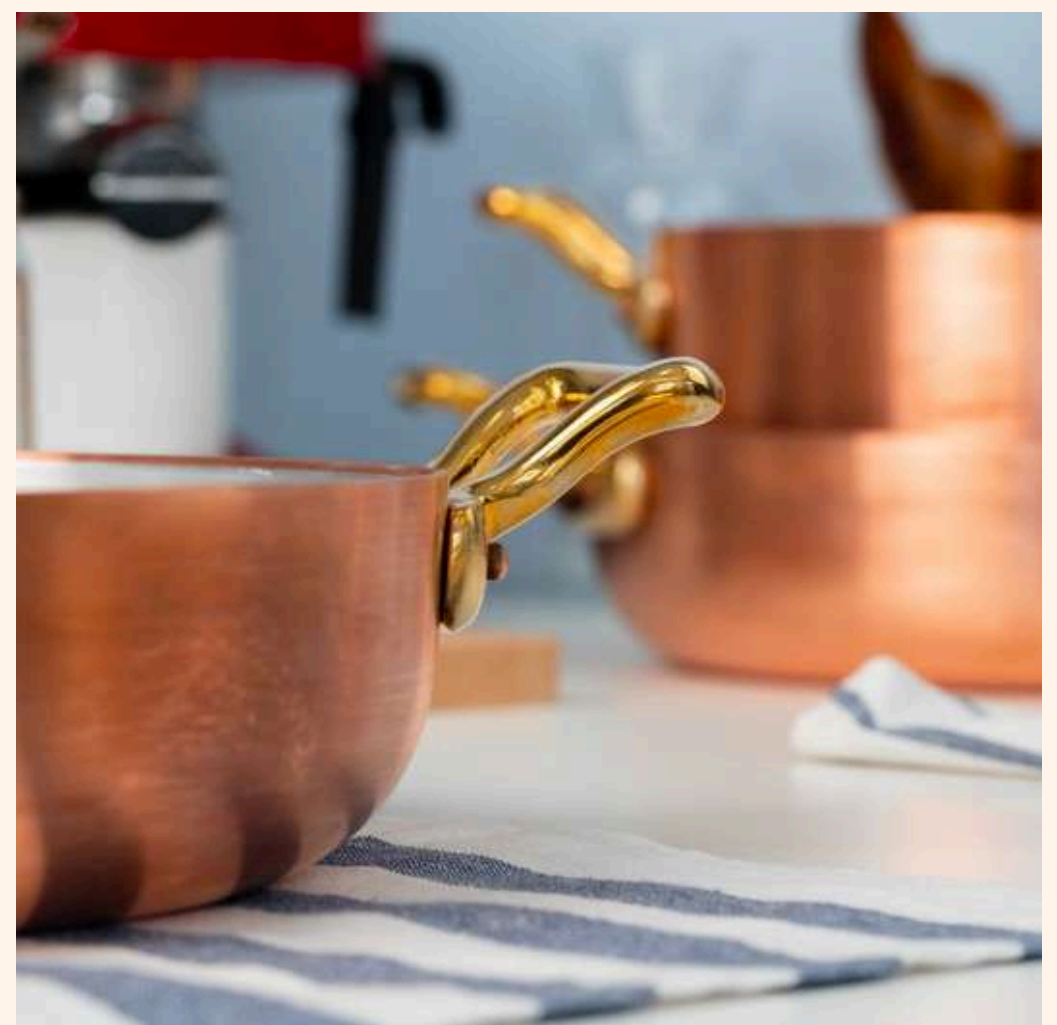

A private Yarra Valley wine tasting

Fine wine, a long lunch and a chauffeur. In other words, a Saturday.

A crafted kitchen heirloom

A copper saucepan or cast-iron casserole. Whether anyone else is allowed to touch it remains to be seen.

ACQUAINT

FOR THE SENTIMENTAL SORT

A bespoke family portrait

A beloved pet or favourite memory, immortalised in art.

A year of beautiful flowers

Because one bouquet is lovely. Twelve is rather more impressive.

ACQUAINT

FOR THE ONE WHO DESERVES A LITTLE SPOILING

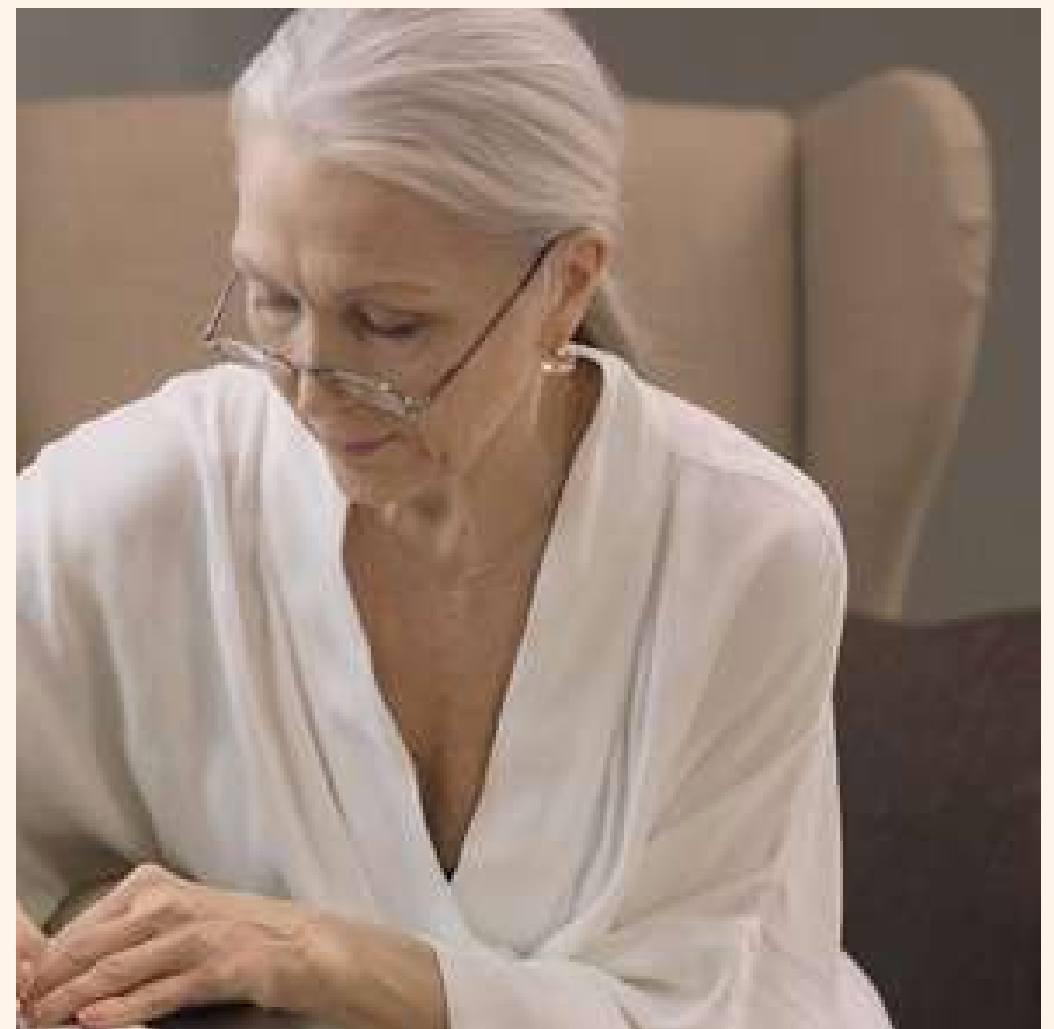

A day of indulgence at the spa

A luxurious massage followed by a leisurely lunch – preferably somewhere nobody expects them to lift a finger.

Or... a day of indulgence at home

For those who prefer their pampering without leaving the house, arrange for a private massage therapist or beauty professional to come to them.

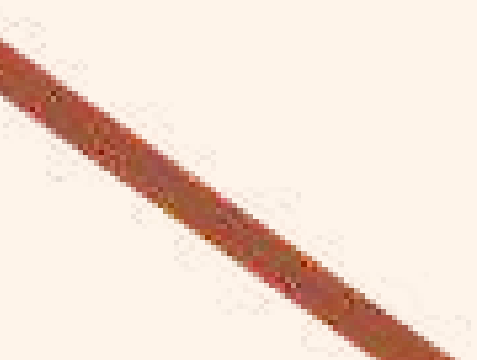

ACQUAINT

FOR THE ONE WHO HAS EVERYTHING
BUT TIME

The luxury of a little extra help at home

For older people who love their routines and independence, a little thoughtful assistance can make everyday life considerably more enjoyable.
